Thought this would be a great addition to many backyard or beach firepits. This is called a Swedish flame. Start by making your cuts like you’re cutting cake and leave about 6 inches at the base. Throw some fuel oil in there (about a cap full) and it will burn approximately two to three hours.

Has anyone tried this?

28,729 people like this.

136,169 shares

Thomas R: Fried some bacon & turtle hashes for breakfast last year. We just put some coals from the existing campfire into the slot, didn’t take long to fire up. Be careful, cause it gets hotter than hell.

Write a comment...